but wish to correct a mistake which you made in settling with friend Wallcut. If you had taken the pains to compare my bill with his account, you would have seen that the $5. from E. L. Hammond, which he charged to me, I had also credited in my account, & deducted from what was due me; so that it ought not to have been deducted again. Hence a balance of $5. is still due me. Will you please hand it to Mr. Hill, if you see him, if not, please send it to my wife. In great haste Yours truly, C. C. Burleigh.

My Dear Friend, I have time but to say a word, before Mr. Hill, who takes this, will go. I hope to send the small remnant of this Report tomorrow afternoon or Monday morning. I am as sorry as you are that it is so much, but don't know how to make it less without omitting entirely some topics. That you can do if you choose of course.

I have not time to say anything in reply to your letter now,
